

What's your type of Venus relationship?

With Valentines Day on 14 February, people naturally think of love and relationships. And who rules love? Venus! What type of Venus relationship do you have? The planets that your partner's (or your) Venus makes aspects to, say a lot about your relationship, whether you're old or young, gay or straight, been married for thousands of years or newly dating.

A Sun aspect to your Venus makes it a delight to be with them. They light up – shine like the Sun, in fact – in your company. They are very proud of you.

A Moon aspect is home-y and comfortable. You feel at home with them and enjoy nesting, cooking, gardening and just watching TV together. They just get you.

Mercury is fun if a little airhead-y. You'll tend to talk about fashion, beauty, music, travel, relationships, trivia etc. Talking really is an aphrodisiac for you.

A Venus to Venus aspect indicates your loving style is. If your Venuses oppose or square each other, one of you will be a drama queen, the other restrained in showing affection etc. If they conjunct, sextile or trine, your love styles will be in synch.

Mars adds plenty of plain old lust and sex appeal. Couples with at least one of these Venus-Mars aspects fancy each other's pants off.

Jupiter is great fun. They make you laugh, buy you generous gifts and go out of their way to help you any way they can. Generosity and laughter is key here.

Saturn adds longevity. This can create couples with a 25-year age gap or those who celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. In any case, it is all about commitment and responsibility.

Uranus adds unpredictability and weirdness. They love to shock you and rebel against society and many wonder exactly what you see in him/her.

Neptune when it's very, very good, is sweet and soulful and makes you feel like you're in your own private world, a bad one can indicate addictions and/or treachery.

Pluto is completely karmic. You are tied up in some way with this person in this life and to some degree, always will be. Power plays can occur all too easily.

Aries

Time to stock up on your vitamin B and nanna naps - you'll enjoy an incredible
More

Taurus

Romantic opportunities to do with people overseas, with those who have
More

Gemini

If not your body, then your mind will wander a lot this month with the Sun
More

Cancer

In hot and steamy weather like this (well, at least it is in Sydney right now), it's More

Leo

As always, Cupid has a special spot for Leos. As happens every year, you -
More

Virgo

I hope you're reading this on the 1st because the month starts with one of the most
More

Libra

Was St Valentine actually a Libran? Who came up with the idea for candles,
More

Scorpio

If you've been thinking about moving, renovating or fixing your home, certain
More

Sagittarius

Sagittarians like to talk almost as much as their Zodiac opposites, Geminis, so the
More

Capricorn

While others stress about forking out for a five-buck Valentines Day card and the More

Aquarius

Happy Birthday Aquarius! You may feel like certain winged archer (ah, that's
More

Pisces

2008 has barely begun and you already crave chill-out time. Relax - it's here. You
More

Let me get back to you on that

Mercury, the planet of communication, went retrograde on 29 January and won't go direct again until 19 February. You can expect problems with your car, mobile, phone, printer, networks, computer, emails, postal deliveries, PDA etc and you'll probably play phone/email tag (that is, if they call you back at all!) with people who are sick, on annual leave or waiting for their boss to give the go-ahead, sign the check etc. Stick to routine tasks and triple-check all your arrangements, receipts, quotes, contracts and bookings etc. Anything new that's started now may have to be revised or rethought. Hold off applying or hiring new jobs! Instead, spend your time doing research, contacting old clients/colleagues for lunch, gathering information, going through your filing, rechecking your work, revising your ideas etc. Keep calm: everything will move ahead from 19 February...

Summer madness

If you had a fight or three with people during January you can blame it on Mars making a near month-long opposition to Pluto. Exact on 3 January, Mars (the planet of temper, among other things) in Gemini actually began opposing Pluto (the planet of extremes) in Sagittarius around Christmas and only eased away in late January. If you had reason to be annoyed about anything it was horribly easy for this to explode into outright war or least many bitter words. Broken or sorely tested relationships would have been experienced by many Sun signs, but Geminis and Sagittarians suffered most from it. Plus, with Mars retrograde in Gemini (which rules communication) from 30 December-31 January it was like having another Mercury retrograde, right before the official one that's happening now! If you (still) need to mend broken fences, you'll get your words and your tone correct if you can wait until 19 February when Mercury goes direct. It's still too easy right now to say all the wrong things.

Win one of 5 x LoveStars reports!

How often do you read your horoscope? Have you ever made any decisions based on a consultation or your stars? Please take a moment to fill out the survey for your chance to win one of 5 x LoveStars reports (worth $99 each), every month, until 29 February 2008! Everyone who enters with their name and email address will receive a 10% discount voucher code to spend on any report. Thanks for your help!