

Teacher Housing Authority

of New South Wales

Light hearted, insightful and very funny! These were some of the comments made by our guests who attended Elizabeth's presentation "your tenants by the stars", at our bi-annual conference held in Dubbo in August 2009.

The Teacher Housing Authority finds and manages accommodation for teachers who move to towns in rural NSW. These teachers leave their friends, family and creature comforts behind. Our Local Housing Representatives assist them with the challenges they face while adjusting to a new lifestyle. Every couple of years we hold a conference where Local Housing Representatives discuss tenancy issues and the sorts of problems associated with moving to a remote area. Entertainment was certainly needed to lighten the atmosphere. Elizabeth did that brilliantly well. Our guests fell about laughing while they were taken through a colourful presentation that described the various kinds of accommodation preferred by each member of the zodiac.

Here is a sneak peak at what we saw. The advice given while dealing with a Virgo was that they would prefer to live next to a park or a running track, they are neat freaks that will chase you with a dustpan and broom and that they are addicted to self help books and may offer these books to you as advice.

Librans are apparently happiest living in accommodation with walk in wardrobes, beauty salons in the bathroom and crystal chandeliers (also appreciated if fitted in the bathroom). They are most likely to complain if they have noisy or messy neighbours. Scorpios on the other hand, are apparently most cheerful when given the opportunity to live in secluded private dwellings in remote locations. Such dwellings should be equipped with black out curtains, safes for secret belongings and king size beds. Unannounced guests are not appreciated.

Conference attendees commented that the presentation gave them a good break, while many commented that they felt that they could relate to it either in themselves or the personality of a workmate or loved one!

Whether the occasion is an in house conference, a presentation to clients or entertainment at a social club, I thoroughly recommend that Elizabeth will positively influence the mood and entertain any crowd.
